-Read, read, read

The best activity to improve writing is reading. Reading exposes students to general vocabulary and content-specific vocabulary. Through reading, students see a variety of authors' techniques that they can use in their own writing.

-Encourage your child to keep a reflective journal.

This is excellent writing practice, as well as a positive outlet for students. Encourage your child to write about things that happen at home, school and elsewhere. Students will develop the "senses" of writing by including what they saw, heard or felt. Provide experiences that will interest your child and spark their writing.
